CABLE CHESSE POSTPONED.
Anglo-American Statesmen's Match Delayed to Gain Practice.
The date of the great chess match between members of the House of Commons and the House of Representatives will probably be postponed from the original date chosen, the 17th of May, to at least a week.

The home players found that they need coaching, and sent a telegram inviting Pillsbury to come over from New York and give them instructions.
The members of the American team have not as yet been fully determined on.
One of the pleasant things about this tournament is the fact that the cable talks will not be charged. One of the English players is a large stock holder in one of the cables.

Cooper After Bald.
New York, May 11.—It now looks certain that Cooper will force Bald into a match and it is not improbable that the contest will take place on the Manhattan Beach track. About two weeks ago Cooper followed Bald to Louisville, but Bald declared that he had an engagement to ride at Boston on Decoration Day. This came the news that Bald would ride at the Quill Club meet at Manhattan Beach on May 22, and as soon as Cooper heard of it he telegraphed for entry blanks. The Quill Club will undoubtedly accommodate the two tracks with special inducements.

Future Champions.
The Water Lilies defeated the Edward Fitzgerald, Jr., by the score of 14 to 2. The feature of the game was the pitching of George Hammer and the catching of James Kliney. The Water Lilies would like to hear from all teams thirteen years and under. Address challenges to Eli Baruch, 478 C. street southwest.
The A. A. C.'s again defeated Mike Hayden's ex-professional team by the score of 9 to 8. The feature of the game was the fine pitching of Nugent for the A. A. C., and of Flannery for the Professionals. The A. A. C. would like to hear from amateur teams in the District. Address challenges to C. G. Clifford, 1208 H street northwest.

The Silver Peaks have organized for the season and would like to hear from teams under twelve years of age. The line-up is as follows: D. Murphy, catcher; W. Smith, left field; J. Shanahan, center field; T. Wilson, right field; D. Egan, pitcher; C. Williams, first base; J. Shanahan, second base; T. Kerrigan, shortstop; C. Williams, third base. Address challenges to Capt. Cullinan, 35 Jackson street.

GAMES TODAY.

Philadelphia at St. Louis.

Backed against the hoodoo that persistently and perennially hovers over National Park on ladies' days, and with unlooked-forly in the box, the Senators lost to Baltimore yesterday afternoon.
Mercer and the gathering of the fair fans usually bring about a beating, and with the Baltimore added to the combination, defeat is as sure as death and taxes.

It has become "common talk" with the doped-in-the-wool tourists that ladies' day is "Jonah." The Senators seem to be coming down the sign of the "beastly" blaze of beauty, and wander around the diamond like so many enchanted spirits or perhaps Svalgaard Tribbles.

And again, Mercer's influence on the Baltimore club is about as hypnotic as a pair of deuces against a full hand. For three seasons, a crazy pitcher, who when the other crack team of the League in the hole of his hand, has struggled against the aggregation from the Monumental City in vain. Not for once has he pitched a winning game against them.
It was thought yesterday that he might break the "strange spell," but it was the same old story—defeat without a single chance to excuse the downfall.
The champions, apparently smarting under the thrashing of the day before, entered the game imbued with a spirit of push and pugnacity. They were "scrappy" from the jump and gave Umpire Hurst no rest or argument. In addition to the display of spirit, they played well, both in the field, on the bases, and at the bat, and it was not a matter of surprise at all that they won.

Corbett, who is "Brother Joe" to the champion pugilist, was assigned to the rubber. Mercer and Corbett suffered by the error of their supporters. Mercer, in particular, it was the most ragged riding game that Washington has played this season. De Montreuil being the chief sinner in the last column of the score.

The contest was devoid of features, excepting the general propensity of the visitors to complain against Hurst. Even the usually quiet "Wee Willie" Keeler got hot under the collar and spoke some very plain words to Timothy in tones not at all sub rosa.

It remained, however, for Jack Doyle to fully arouse Tim's "first" and when in the third Jack grew virulent in speech and enunciated a string of superlative adjectives, eschewed and taboos in sewing circles. Hurst first sat him on the bench, and when Jack wouldn't quit chewing up and spitting out his vocabulary of language, he was ordered from the field and made to go. Doyle only walked around the grand stand, however, and then took position on the grass in deep left, from which point of vantage he watched his comrades win the game. He had an appreciative audience to his detailed tirade, and he sat down in the corner. There was a trace of fat policemen and the always present "jury" of Freedman's Hospital.

The "affair" between Hurst and Doyle was occasioned by Tim calling a strike on Jack, when he was at bat, in the third. Keeler tried to steal second, and Jack passed his stick in order to confuse Farrell in his throw to second. Keeler was nailed to O'Brien, and "strike," said Hurst. Then the passage of the quips and bon-mots started, and ended with the removal of Doyle.
Just how much color of the realm Tim assumed Jack for his oratory is not known, but the chances are that "Uncle Nick's" exchequer will be fatter by $50 after next Baltimore payday. It costs to "sass" the umpire severely.
Senators Smith and Murphy liked Monday's game so well that they came back again and brought Senator Gorman with them. Of course, the senior Maryland sinner rooted for his constituents, and was very much rattled over their comparatively easy victory. Some several years ago played at the Capitol, was captain of a ball team in this city.

Senator Allen also cast aside the weighty cares of legislation and rooted in the front row.
The game was one of accidents. Keeler, Doyle, Kelly and McGraw sustaining injuries. Keeler and Doyle collided in the second on Cartwright's high fly to right, Keeler falling prone to the ground.
"Victors" Pond and McInnes came to the rescue and soon put "Wee Willie" on his feet by administration of the methods of materia medica. Doyle was also made seelick by the mixup. In the fourth, Kelly was hit in the neck by a hot thunder from Stenzel's bat, and in the seventh McGraw was knocked down at the plate by a "solar plexus" blow by Mercer.

The champions scored in their opening inning. After McGraw had been retired on a fly to DeMontreuil, Keeler hit to third and retired first safely. Jennings slugged the ball for three sacks, scoring. Keeler and Hughes tallied on Kelly's two base drive to center. On a fielder's choice, Doyle's bat, Kelly was run down between third and home. Doyle reaching Kelly's corner during the middle. Back registered on Stenzel's force left.
In the second, Reitz gained first on DeMontreuil's error, and traveled to second when Cartwright made a bad throw of Clarke's hit. Corbett sacrificed the runners along, and Reitz tallied on McGraw's error to second. Keeler struck out first, when DeMontreuil fumbled, but when he started to steal second Clarke was investigated off third, and was disposed of between O'Brien, Cartwright, Farrell, Reilly and Mercer, the first four assisting in the out to Mercer, who ran Clarke down on the line.
Baltimore drew blanks from the second to the seventh, when they increased their total to six. A base on balls to Stenzel, a hit by Reitz, fly-out to Abbey by Clarke, and Corbett's clean single to left scored Stenzel and Reitz.

The Senators made two runs at their inaugural turn at bat. Tom Brown was safe on Reitz's error and scored on Stenzel's pretty two-base hit to right, that narrowly escaped bounding into the bleacher seats. Solbach advanced on De Mont's out from Doyle to Corbett and came home when Farrell was retired from Doyle's bat.
The third and last run was registered in the sixth. Brown led off with a two-bagger to right, journeyed to third on Stenzel's out, from Reitz to O'Brien, and across the plate, when Corbett made a fielder's choice of DeMontreuil's tap, which he threw wild to Clarke on the line.

The attendance was 3,000. The score:

Jennings got in his hit-by-the-ball specialty in the seventh.
This afternoon will be the last chance to see a game until June 2.
When Robinson is not catching, Kelley acts as captain of the Orioles.
By Boston shutting out Pittsburg, "Little Louisville" ties for second place.
Some of the surplus hits made Monday would have been useful yesterday.
The Senators will leave for Pittsburg tonight and Baltimore will go to Boston.

Minor League Manager Ted Sullivan watched the game from the grand stand.
"Bunting Al" is in proper humor and condition to win and make it two out of three.
Messrs. Anderson, Murphy, and Carter are representing the Baltimore papers on the trip.
Selbach's running catch of Kelley's drive in the seventh was the fielding feature of the game.
"Duke" Farrell's throwing arm was tried for the occasion. He winged six birds who attempted to fly to second base.

Vice-President Hobart told Mr. Wagner when leaving the park, Monday afternoon, that he expected to be a regular patron during the season. He said that there was no diversion he enjoyed so much as a game of ball.

BATTLE OF THE LOCAL GIANTS.

Georgetown and Catholic University Teams Will Meet Today.

It has for some time been an open question in local college baseball circles as to which is the strongest of the two big teams, that of Georgetown or the Catholic "Varsity." The friends of each and all admirers of good, strong college baseball will be given an opportunity this afternoon on Georgetown Field to see the two local giants in a struggle for supremacy on the diamond.

Both teams are playing strong ball, and each will make a mighty effort to land the honors which go with a victory. With the team from Edgington will be as a central figure the mighty McGillicie, who, in a game several weeks ago with Lehigh, made the record of the season by striking out twenty-two men. The team behind him is a good fielding one, and in this department cannot play for what it lacks in hitting, as Lehigh's team is by no means very weak.

Fitted against the great "striker-out" will be the great Walsh, of the blue and gray. Since the shifting around of the players the team has been playing well, fielding and hitting in earnest and clever. Lehigh's McGillicie will again play at first, Keaton at second and Fleming at short.

On account of the great rivalry existing between the teams and the large following each has, the game will undoubtedly draw out the largest attendance of the season.

Game will be called at 4:15 o'clock. The batting order of the teams will be as follows:

THE "PARSON" TALKS.

Confident That Choyens Can Put Fitzsimmons Out.

New York, May 11.—"Parson" Davies has withdrawn the $1,000 which he lent Al Smith a week ago, to hand a match between Choyens and Champion Fitzsimmons, for $5,000 a side. Davies had this to say today:
"Joe is rapidly going into his old-time form, and his 'go' with Denver Smith demonstrates it. I am pretty positive that if Choyens and Fitzsimmons come together Joe would win. To show that we mean nothing but business, I will let Choyens fight Fitzsimmons for $5,000 a side next fall or within six months from date."

COLLEGE BOYS TAKE A TOWN

Joy Over a Baseball Victory Makes Them Riotous.

Play Various Mad Capers and Rout the Guardians of the Law—Faculty Expel Fifteen.

Sharon, Pa., May 11.—Fifteen students of Grove City College, one of the largest schools in Western Pennsylvania, were expelled today by the college faculty for riotous conduct last night.

The trouble arose over a game of baseball, which was played last Saturday between the Washington and Jefferson College team and the Grove City College nine.

The greatest excitement prevailed during the game, and when Grove City won out, the students were wild with enthusiasm. It had been arranged that they celebrate their victory, and they accordingly met in the campus late last night. Securing all the tin horns and all sorts of shouting devices, the students paraded the usually quiet streets of the town, making night hideous with their yells and noise. This was not sufficient, however, for they secured axes with which to break into the armory. A number of the students smashed the doors down in the armory, and the students here were stored some 2,000 blank cartridges and 500 pounds of powder. All this they took and renewed their celebration.

During the explosion of a quantity of the powder several students sustained serious burns about the face. About this time the entire town was aroused. Constable Leach swore in several deputies and made a raid on the students. The officers were repulsed and several of them received broken heads.

The students then assembled near the campus and dared the officers. Constable Leach secured several more citizens and again assailed the students, but they did not move from their position. The officers succeeded in arresting one student.

Four of the young men were detained to release the prisoner. They made a break at a dead run into the little crowd of officers, and dashing the prisoner from an officer, fairly dragged him back to their stronghold. The officers finally threatened to use their revolvers if the students did not return to their rooms. They refused to go, but the revolvers were not used. With renewed energy the students were again assailed by the officers, but the latter were beaten back. The students held their position for over two hours, while the officers debated as to the best course to pursue. It was suggested that the militia be called out, but the students finally dispersed to the college.

This morning the faculty held a meeting and obtained the names of fifteen of the ringleaders, who were expelled. Further trouble is imminent, as the expelled students are indignant. There are a dozen students and officers who have their heads tied up as a result of the fight.

FIRE IN A CLOTHING STORE

The Misfit Clothing Company's Store Seriously Damaged.

A Woman and Two Children Rescued From the Third Floor of the Building by Chief Parris.

Fire was discovered in the rear of the Misfit Clothing Company's store, at No. 407 Seventh street northwest, about 8 o'clock last night, and for a few moments threatened the destruction of the entire stock as well as the building itself. The prompt arrival of the department and their quick action, however, kept the loss down to about $500, principally to the stock, which is covered with insurance.

The blaze was discovered by Mrs.
